STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Ours is a vast country and so is the number of farmers which is in crores and they constitute nearly seventy per cent of our total population. Due to its vastness, natural calamities do occur in one part or the other almost round the year. For instance, the whole of Rajasthan, parts of Gujarat, Maharashtra, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Jharkhand, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, etc. are drought prone. Every year half of Bihar is flooded and the other, half faces drought. Similarly, in Southern States, coastal areas are lashed with cyclones or even by tsunami whereas other parts face drought conditions. Many parts of the country face earthquake, hailstorm, cloud bursts, extreme cold conditions and other natural calamities. Farmers mostly bear the brunt of such natural calamities. They lose their crops, livestock and many a time their dwelling units and household items including foodgrains. Despite this, the farmers are hounded by the moneylenders to get back their money taken by the farmers hoping to repay after reaping the good harvest. But natural calamity dashes their hopes and with this, many of them end their lives. Thousands of farmers have committed suicide in recent years in Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, etc.

It is a pity that our farming community is under indebtedness and it is a chronic and continuing problem for them which has to be removed through consistent efforts. Due to increase in life expectancy, the number of old farmers is increasing very fast and most of them are not supported by their children due to various reasons compelling them to lead a miserable life.

Since ours is a welfare State, the Government is duty bound to provide social security to the farmers by giving them old age pension, remunerative prices and come to their rescue at times of distress by giving them adequate compensation if they are affected by natural calamity and by taking other welfare measures.

Hence this Bill.

II

BILL NO. VII OF 2006

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 2006.

Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force with immediate effect.

2. After article 38 of the Constitution, the following article shall be inserted, namely:—

Insertion of new article 38A.

38 A (1). Notwithstanding anything in this Constitution, the Union shall strive to promote and develop with special care,—

(a) sports and sports persons right from the grass root levels to enable them to compete at international competitions;

(b) sports infrastructure such as stadia with necessary facilities, gadgets and tracks of international standards with sufficient number of coaches and allied services to groom up players;

(c) sports at school and college levels by making it compulsory for all the students;

(d) sports at village to national levels by holding sports melas and competitions from time to time;

(2) Parliament may by law regulate the sports associations and federations so that they seriously promote the sports for which they have been set up.

Amendment
of the Seventh Schedule.

3. In the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution,—

(i) in List I — Union List, after entry 68, the following entry shall be inserted, namely:—

“68A. Sports.”; and

(ii) in List II — State List, in entry 33, the word “sports” shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Ours is the second most populous Country in the globe after China. Though China has a dominant presence in sports at international level, we have not made even our presence felt in international sports activities except in cricket, which is played only in few countries of the Commonwealth. In the Olympics and other international sports meet, our performance is very dismal. In fact, no sincere efforts have ever been made by us to arrest the declining standards of sports in the country. Our sports bodies have been politicized and instead of promoting sports they generally promote individual interests and are marred with politics. It is a pity that though our country is endowed with various climatic conditions suitable for developing all kinds of sports and games, we are nowhere in the arena of sports in the world.

One common reason cited for this poor state of affairs in sports is that the subject is in the state list of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution and because of poor economic condition of most of states, sufficient focus is not being given to sports activities in the country both by the Centre as well as the States. It is felt that in order to give proper attention and promotion to sports, the subject of 'Sports' should be transferred to Union List from the State List. It is also necessary to have a national sports policy to encourage all sports activities and games in the country.

Hence this Bill.

8. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Quite a large number of women in our Country particularly those belonging to lower and middle income groups or classes of the society become destitute after the death of their husbands who do not leave adult sons behind them or are divorced women or unmarried women either neglected by their families or being lonely have no means to support them. It has also been seen that in many cases the widows are thrown out of the households. Many of them work as housemaids for their survival and to support the children if they have the ones. But even this is not possible for the infirm, old, physically or mentally challenged women who mostly survive on begging. Many women are forced into flesh trade and become sex workers to avoid starvation, which makes their lives disgraceful. The position of destitute women is more awful in rural areas because being illiterate they are exploited to the extent possible.

It is expedient to liquidate the exploitation of the destitute, neglected women or widows in a Welfare State like ours and provide financial assistance and other necessary facilities to such women so that they live honourably in the society. For this purpose an Authority should be established to ensure that the conditions of destitute, neglected women or widows should not become so miserable due to poverty which may enable the unscrupulous elements of the society to exploit the situation and make their lives disgraceful in the Society.

Hence this Bill.

(4) Whoever commits incestuous rape on a woman shall be punished with death.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In our country, on the one hand the progress and prosperity is hampered by the boozing population and on the other the dwindling sex ratio, that is of lesser female population, is also a cause of concern. The latest census of 2001 has revealed a disturbing trend of fast declining sex ratio of below 900 females per thousand males in many of the States including Haryana, Punjab, Himachal Pradesh, Gujarat and others. This is happening mainly due to premature and induced abortions of female foetus after sex determination tests which are being carried out on a very large scale in the country. Though sex determination is illegal, much of it is attributable to male preference in the families. Although abortions for containing family size is legal, but abortions in very large numbers are carried out to destroy female foetus after illegal pre natal sex determination tests only to avert birth of female child. This alarming situation has started showing ugly trends in some States where people are purchasing their brides from other States. This trend may result in social chaos in the near future so it has to be effectively curbed so as to correct the declining sex ratio by providing deterrent provisions in the Indian Penal Code.

Similarly, there has been unprecedented increase in the rape cases committed on women and girls which is the worst kind of criminal offence against women and humanity. It becomes more heinous once it is committed on minor girls. Such beasts do not deserve any leniency and must be hanged to death. Similarly, our heads bow in shame when we come across incestuous rapes committed on women and girls by none other than the trusted relatives. What can be more shameful than a father committing rape of his own daughter or a brother raping his sister. Such relatives must not be spared and must be hanged to death. This will have a deterrent effect on the society.

Hence this Bill.

Power to make rules. 18. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

As per National Survey on Blindness (2001—03) there are estimated 1.2 crore visually handicapped or blind persons in the country and the estimated prevalence of blindness is 0.91 per cent in males and 1.29 per cent in females. For these unfortunate visually handicapped persons darkness has become part of their lives. Shockingly their number is increasing despite the fact that a National Programme for Control of Blindness is under implementation in the country. The visually handicapped persons face all sorts of odds in their day to day life and more so the visually handicapped females. To provide education to the visually handicapped persons Governments are running Blind Schools and Training Centres to give them vocational training but number of such schools and Training Centres is awfully very short. But the worst comes when the visually handicapped despite acquiring educational qualifications and vocational training do not get employment and remain neglected in the society. Many of them are very talented and can deliver the goods but they are denied employment on one pretext or the other. In Government jobs one per cent vacancies are reserved for visually handicapped persons but even this small percentage is not fully filled up and there remains backlog of vacancies for one reason or the other whereas qualified visually handicapped persons are running from pillar to post to find employment leading to frustration and distress. Now they are agitating in streets and before Government offices. Hence in a Welfare State like ours adequate employment opportunities have to be provided to these unfortunate brothers and sisters of our society so that they too can lead a good life.

Hence this Bill.

10. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

It is awesome and pitiable that even in this age of scientific advancements, modernization and progress in all walks of life, the girl child is the most neglected and unwanted in the world and more so in our country. Most of the families do not want to have a daughter. The girl is killed in the womb of her mother itself if the female foetus is detected in the sex determination tests, which are conducted illegally on a very large scale throughout the country. The latest Census (2001) has revealed a stunning fact about the steep decline in male-female ratio in the country and more so in the northern and western states where the female ratio has declined to the dangerous levels. Further, the hapless girl child is consistently neglected in many homes. The condition of girl child in the orthodox families particularly in rural and tribal areas is the worst. While the boy gets the best of attention, the girl is generally neglected. Every family tries to send the boy to the best school but the girl is not sent for school education. Girls are denied even the basic schooling. They are forced to do the household chores and married off at a very tender age. In the cities the poor girls can be seen working as maids in households which, in fact, is their school going age. In the cities and Metropolitans many families give equal treatment to the girl child and in some rare cases the girl child is given more weightage and facilities, love and care but their percentage is negligible. Majority of girls remain illiterate and exploited throughout their lives. This leads to further illiteracy among the future generation of the girl child and this vicious cycle goes on.

Hence it has become necessary to take some drastic steps by making basic education compulsory and mandatory so as to remove illiteracy amongst the girl child. If the girl child becomes literate she will not allow her children later to remain illiterate. This will eradicate illiteracy from the country. It is therefore, proposed in this Bill that the parents must send the girl child to school for basic education otherwise they should be punished. The Government too should open adequate number of schools for the girls and provide necessary facilities in such schools. This will have the desired results and illiteracy amongst the girl child will be eradicated very soon.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In our country there are millions of unfortunate women who lose their husbands, many a time untimely, and become widows and their number is nearly three per cent of our population. Very large number of widows particularly from the lower and middle income groups of our society become destitute after the death of their husbands. More than fifty per cent of these widows are old without any means to support themselves. Their position becomes more miserable if they have dependent children to support and bring up. They work as housemaids and take up other jobs for survival. It is very common in our society that when a widow does not have a source of livelihood or permanent source of income they are driven out of their in-laws homes or even from their parental homes. Sometimes condition of such widows becomes so miserable due to poverty and other compelling reasons that they are exploited to the extent possible and their life is made disgraceful. Many old widows suffering from infirmity due to old age, disability or ailment can be seen begging in the streets and public places. Many young widows are not only sexually exploited by their known ones but also forced into prostitution. Due to superstition at many places, they are treated as bad omen and are kept away from auspicious functions of the households.

Ours is a welfare state, therefore, the State is duty bound to initiate welfare measures and protect and provide maintenance to the hapless widows so that they too live honourably in the society. For this purpose and autonomous Welfare Board should be established to exclusively look after the welfare of needy widows.

Hence this Bill.

VIIIBILL No. XLIV OF 2006A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.*

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 2006.	Short title.
2. In the Eighth Schedule to the Constitution, existing entries 14 to 22 shall be re-numbered as entries 15 to 23 respectively and before entry 15 as so re-numbered, the following entry shall be inserted, namely:—	Amendment of Eighth Schedule.

“14. Mizo.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

“MIZO”, is the language spoken not only by the people living in the state of Mizoram, but also a large number of people living in southern part of Manipur State, North Cachar Hills of Assam, Jampui Range of Tripura State and some parts of Myanmar and Bangladesh. About thirty lakh people speaking it worldwide.

Mizo language, despite its very late standardization and formation of Mizo alphabet in 1894, has a rich literature both in poetry and prose and it has come a long way within a very short span of time. Within a period of less than hundred years, it has achieved the distinction of being the second highest literacy rate in the country amongst the speakers of this language. However, Mizo language does not get due recognition because of its non inclusion in the VIII Schedule, and further development of the language will be possible only after its inclusion in the VIII Schedule of the Constitution.

Moreover, for eliminating the feeling of alienation/isolation and indifference from the minds of the people of the North East India, it is utmost necessary to include this language in the VIII Schedule for national integration. Inclusion of Mizo in the VIII Schedule of the Constitution will surely send the right signal to the people of the area for integration and oneness.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

It is rightly said that India lives in villages because nearly eighty per cent of its population lives in the villages and mostly depends on agriculture and agro based occupations. There are farms, orchards, poultry farms, livestock rearing farms where rural based labour are employed. They work as weavers, small scale entrepreneurs, handicraft artisans, potters, cobblers, blacksmiths etc. There are millions of such agricultural, home based and other workers who are unorganized and remain exploited and poor throughout their lives and live in distress from generations together. Their wages and income are meagre and they do not get employment round the year. As a result, they are poverty stricken and remain neglected even by the State.

In a welfare State, like ours, it is the duty of the State to introduce welfare measures for the have-nots like the rural based labour who remain unorganized and exploited. Hence, it is necessary to formulate a national welfare policy for the rural based labour and constitute a Welfare Fund for them to ameliorate their living conditions. In pursuance of the said Policy, the Central and State Governments will implement the welfare measures contained in that Policy and defray the costs to the Welfare Fund.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In our country littering and defiling of public places is very common. People do not hesitate to spit anywhere particularly after chewing paan or consuming paan masala, gutkha, khaini and other tobacco mixed products without bothering about the ill effects of such spitting. Similarly people can be seen smoking even in 'No Smoking Zones' or while using public transport. Many a time people smoke right under the banner reading "Smoking is Prohibited" without bothering for the environment which is polluted by the toxic smoke generated by such smoking. The smokers also forget that they are also compelling non-smokers to inhale the deadly smoke and to suffer without fault. Sometimes burning cigarettes or beedi butts are thrown carelessly resulting in devastating fires many a time in the sensitive and important places.

Similarly people can be seen urinating or even defecating in public places anywhere along the road side or along any wall including those of important national or historical buildings without bothering about the public health resulting in such areas or walls to stink with odour and germinate various viruses crippling of which cause diseases.

It is also a common sight that people leave or throw litter wherever they like including the public places without caring for the health hazard that it may cause.

It has therefore, become necessary to impose a strict ban on smoking, spitting, urinating, defecating, littering, defacement and defilement so that a healthy atmosphere prevails at public Places.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Purchasing of products and services through tele-shopping has become the order of the day through which a consumer can get a wide range of products manufactured at various places in the world at his doorstep just by placing an order through a telephone call on a given number. It has reduced the distances in global market. While the manufacturers and retailers have exploited this channel of marketing, the lawmakers have not enacted any legislation to protect the interests of consumers in this area. As a result of which there is no specific law to deal with this kind of shopping.

In view of the fact that persons buying any product or service through tele-shopping do not have any face to face contact nor do they get any opportunity to virtually see or feel or examine the product, the chances of getting a bad deal are quite high, unless there are legal provisions to protect the consumer's interest. At times, full information of the product and service is not given and the poor consumer has to suffer because of the faults of the supplier and retailer who, once the deal is struck impose several conditions for return of the product and service. In many countries, there are laws for the protection of consumers in respect of tele-shopping. These laws provide right to consumers, such as, after receiving the goods if the consumer feels that he does not want it, the product can be returned within a specified time of receiving the goods for a full refund without offering any explanation for the return. Similar regulations are also required in our country for protecting the consumers who are opting for tele-shopping.

Hence this Bill.

Amendment
of Section 18.

“Provided that the Chairperson and members of the Commission shall be appointed on the recommendations of a committee consisting of the Chief Minister, Leader of Opposition in the Legislative Assembly and the Ministers in charge of Departments of Home and Child Welfare.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Commissions for Protection of Child Rights Act, 2005 was enacted by Parliament in December, 2005. The Act deals with the constitution of a National Commission and State Commissions for protection of child rights and children's courts for providing speedy trial of offences against children or of violation of child rights. It is a well known fact that it is the mother who understands the child better than anyone else. But, the women have not been given adequate and desired representation in the scheme of the Commissions for Protection of Child Rights Act, so much so that even the post of Chairperson of the Commission has not been reserved for a woman. It has been felt by the public at large that women should be given a major and significant role in the functioning of the Commission. For this, at least, four of the six members of the commission should be women besides the chairperson who should always be a woman. Further, the Act does not prescribe for any experience to become a member of the Commission. It is also desirable that the members of a Commission should not be appointed without possessing adequate experience in the prescribed field. Hence, it is proposed that the members to be appointed to the Commission must have, at least, ten years of experience in the respective field. Further, apprehensions have also been expressed regarding independence of the Commission in view of the provisions in the Act for appointment of the Chairperson and the members of the Commission. In order to make the Commission more independent, it would be appropriate if the Chairperson and members are appointed on the recommendation of a Committee consisting of the Prime Minister, Leaders of Opposition in Rajya Sabha and Lok Sabha and the Ministers of Home Affairs and Human Resource Development. Similar provisions have been proposed in the Bill for State Commissions also.

Section 17 of the Bill empowers the State Governments to constitute State Commissions for protection of child rights. The word used in this section is 'may' which gives a wide discretion to the State Governments which may or may not constitute the Commission. The experience in this regard is not very encouraging, as many of the State Governments did not constitute the Commissions under different enactments where similar provisions exist. Therefore, it is felt that there should be a mandatory provision for the States to constitute State Commissions for the welfare and development of the children all over the country. An amendment has been proposed in the Act accordingly. Concerns have also been expressed with regard to matters pertaining to educational and health care of the children, particularly the mentally and physically challenged children. Therefore, it is proposed that the Commission should also look after these issues.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective by amending the relevant provisions of the Act.

Provided that no such orders shall be made after the expiry of the period of three years from the date of commencement of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Article 98 of the Constitution provides for a separate Secretariat for each House of Parliament. It further provides that the Parliament may, by law, regulate the recruitment and the conditions of service of persons appointed to these separate secretariats. Till such time, Parliament regulates these issues, these powers have been given to President to make rules on them. Even after 56 years of the enactment of the Constitution, no law has been framed by Parliament to regulate recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to these two secretariats. Therefore, the enactment of such a law is long overdue.

The concept of an independent secretariat for legislature is an essence of Parliament democracy. Under the democratic set up adopted in our country, the three wings, i.e., executive, legislature and judiciary have been envisaged to be separate and independent of each other. This can be realized if the secretariats serving these wings are made independent so that they can discharge their duties in all fairness without any fear or favour. The significance of this conceptualization of a secretariat independent of the executive was fully realized in the 1920s under the leadership and guidance of Pandit Motilal Nehru, Lala Lajpat Rai and the President of the Constituent Assembly, Shri Vithalbhai Patel.

Therefore, the unique position of the Rajya Sabha Secretariat demands a special sense of dedication and impartiality in discharge of duties from its officers and staff. It also requires a broad-based institutional arrangement for running the House in an effective manner. It is necessary to empower the Chairman for watching and safeguarding the interests of the secretariat staff in the service of the House and its members. Envisaging this, the Bill provides for the establishment of a House Commission to look after the whole gamut of administration of the Rajya Sabha and matters connected therewith.

VIJAY J. DARDA

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to set up a Rajya Sabha Commission. Its members, other than the ex-officio Chairman of the Rajya Sabha, who is the Vice-President of India, are the members of the House who would be discharging their duties in relation of the Commission as members. Clause 8 seeks to set up a Financial Committee to look after the financial affairs of the Secretariat. The expenditure to be incurred on the payment of members TA/DA as a result of setting up of the Rajya Sabha Commission would be a marginal one and it is estimated that an expenditure of Rupees ten crore may be involved. There will not be any non-recurring expenditure.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 13 of the Bill provides for rule-making power to the Commission. The matters in respect of which such rules may be made are matters of procedure and administrative details only. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

Overriding effect of the Act.

9. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Power to make rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Article 21A of the Constitution provides that it is the responsibility of State government to provide free and compulsory education to all children of the age of six to fourteen years. Though the government have taken a number of steps in his direction, yet these are not sufficient. We have not been able to provide education to all children even after 58 years of independence.

Competence in reading and writing is a significant factor of human prospective capability. Literacy is the first step in getting access to the means of education and having knowledge and information. Hence, compulsory education should be provided upto senior secondary level and scholarships may be provided to the children who are good at studies.

It is also necessary to provide free food, dress, books and scholarships to the poor students so that the parents are inspired to send their wards to school. It is proposed in the Bill that the parents must send their children to school otherwise they shall be punished. This measure will achieve the desired results and the illiteracy will be eradicated from the country soon.

Hence, this Bill.

JAI PARKASH AGGARWAL

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill has the provision of compulsory education from primary level to higher secondary level. Clause 4 provides that appropriate Govt. shall establish and maintain schools for providing free education. It is not confirmed at this stage that how many schools will be required to implement the provisions of the Bill. Some expenditure will be incurred on establishment of schools, free food and uniform, etc. apart from giving scholarships to the poor students. The expenditure to be incurred in respect of the schools in Union Territories will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. The expenditure to be incurred in respect of the schools in the States will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Funds of concerned states. However, some aid will be provided by the Central Government in this regard.

It is estimated that a sum of rupees fifteen crore may involve as recurring expenditure. A sum of rupees twenty five crore is also likely to be involved as non-recurring expenditure.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 9 of the Bill gives power to the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Bill. The rules will relate to matters of details only.

The delegation of legislative power is of normal character.

Application of other laws not barred.

8. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act. Power to make rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Our country is the largest democratic country in the world and its population has already crossed the one billion mark. But only about 35 to 45 per cent of voters of the country exercise their franchise in any election. Often, it has been observed during elections that the number of actual voters casting their votes is far less than the eligible voters and the average number of votes polled is also very less.

It is evident from the general elections held for Lok Sabha and Vidhan Sabha in the last few years that voting was less than 35 per cent in many States and in number of cases people had boycotted elections and thus did not vote deliberately.

All the citizens should exercise their right to elect their representatives, so that the elections reflect the will of the whole electorate and not merely a part of it.

With a view to increasing the voting percentage, the Bill proposes to make it compulsory for every eligible voter to vote and provide for exemption only in cases where the voter is physically incapacitated due to illness of serious nature or the voter has a genuine reason for not casting his vote.

Since the provision is being made compulsory, punishment is also sought to be given to those who do not vote in elections. However, reward is also proposed to be given to those persons who vote at elections in spite of their illness or vote without any break.

Hence this Bill.

JAI PARKASH AGGARWAL

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 4 of the Bill provides that polling booths in adequate numbers shall be established in each constituency. It also provides for special arrangements for the persons deputed for public duty, incapacitated persons and women besides safety and security of citizens coming to cast their vote.

The Bill, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about rupees eight crore per annum.

A non-recurring expenditure of about rupees fourteen crore is also likely to be involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 8 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purpose of the Bill and the rules relate to matters of details only. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.
